“It’s a total eclipse of the sun.”—August 21, 2017

Where will you be to experience the Total Eclipse of the Sun? The summer issue of Paris! Magazine (www.myparis magazine.com) has more information about the eclipse and where the best viewing places will be; or visit <https://eclipse2017.nasa.gov/> for all things ‘eclips-ecal’.

On August 21, 2017, millions of people across the United States will see one of nature's grandest sights — a total eclipse of the Sun. The Moon will completely block the Sun, daytime will become twilight, and the Sun's corona will shine in the darkness. This map shows the path of the eclipse as it passes over Tennessee.
